A Fortunate Mistake.

The train to Gilead Falls was late upon that particular Monday afternoon, and as a natural consequence thereof, the stage-coach to Gilead Gorge was an hour behind time.

'Once you lose five minutes, and there'll be plenty o' set backs to make it ten,' as Reuben Dolly, the stage-driver, ironically remarked, as he piled up the trunks on the baggage-wagon that was to go on first. 'This ere's for Fuller's Farm,' said he, 'and all the rest for the View Hotel. Now look out, you!' to the boy in charge, 'and don't go to tippin' the bags and bandboxes down the side of the mountain.'

'Guess I've driv' on these 'ere roads afore,' said Simon Sackett, the long-legged young Jehu.

'Yes, but there's some people as don't never learn wisdom by experience,' said Reuben, as he rolled up the leather curtains of the stage-coach, and fastened them with a rusty buckle.

And when the baggage-wagon reached the Gorge, the trunks and boxes were all shaken into such an undistinguishable confusion that Simon did not know one from another.

'There's two Mrs. John Joneses,' said he. 'One on 'em's to go to the hotel, and 'tother to Fuller's Farm. Now which is which? That's what I'd like to know.'

Harry Fuller, who was waiting at the cross-roads, with his one-horse wagon, speedily settled the question.

'Why, this big trunk goes to the hotel, of course,' said he. 'Our Mrs. John Jones is a dressmaker, coming here for two weeks' rest. 'Taint likely she'd travel with a trunk as big as Noah's Ark, is it? Keel in the little one, quick?'

So that when Mrs. John Jones herself reached the cross-roads, she very naturally entered the same equipage that contained her trunk.

She was a little woman, with cheeks which still retained a youthful freshness; yellow, rippling hair and timid blue eyes; and she was dressed in inexpensive black, covered all over with a linen duster.

Harry Fuller glanced at her with a sidewise regard as he whipped up his fat and meditative horse.

'I don't quite know how you'll like it,' said he, 'but our folks have changed your room.'

'Changed my room?' said the boarder, glancing inquiringly at him.

'You see, after we settled you were to have the front bed room,' he explained, 'my mother got a letter from Mr. Lefton. Mrs. Lefton used to work in the factory here years ago; but she married a city lawyer, and now there isn't anything quite good enough for her. And they wanted my mother to give them three communicating rooms; and so mother thought you wouldn't mind the little room over the kitchen. City boarders mostly spend all their time out doors, you know; and it isn't so very hot after the supper fire has gone out.'

Mrs. John Jones was silent.

'I told mother she oughtn't to do it,' said the young farmer; 'but Mrs. Lefton would have the room. And mother thought she could explain it all to you when you came. And the room will be fifty cents a week less.'

'Oh!' said Mrs. John Jones.

'Fuller's farm was a long, low, straggling building, shaded by ancient elms, and possessing a peaked roof and chimney-stack which would have delighted the soul of an artist.

Old Mrs. Fuller bustled to receive her guests. The tea hour was already past, but there was a bowl of milk and a heaping saucer of red raspberries on the table, and the little earthen-ware teapot still simmered on the back of the stove in a hospitable way.

'I hev to be dretful ceremonious with the Leftons,' said Mrs. Fuller; 'but I can do 'most as I please with you, Mrs. Jones!'

And as Mrs. Jones sipped her cup of tea, and crumbled delicious home-made bread into her bowl of milk, she could hear an animated conversation going on in the kitchen beyond, between the old lady and her son.

'It's all nonsense, Henry!' said Mrs. Fuller, who, being a little deaf, did not always consider how loud she spoke. 'What! you to give up your room, and go out to the barn chamber? Hoity-toity! Ain't the kitchen bed-room good enough for a dressmaker?'

'Hush, mother! She is a real lady, I tell you,' responded Harry.

'Fiddlesticks! said Mrs. Fuller.

'And I am sure the kitchen bed-room wouldn't suit her,' pursued Harry. 'Mother, it is too small and too warm. And if you will fix up mine for her, I would just as soon sleep in the barn these sultry nights.'

'Oh, pshaw!' said Mrs. Fuller. 'Dressmakers hadn't ought to give themselves airs. And Mrs. Lefton was dreadful annoyed when she heard I was going to take a working-woman in to board. She wouldn't ha' come if she'd ha' knowed it, she said.'

'Then I should advise her to stay away,' observed Harry Fuller, with some emphasis. 'But you will make this arrangement, mother, won't you? To please me!'

And he took up the empty milking-pail and went out.

Mrs. John Jones smiled to herself.

'So I have a champion already?' she thought.

Harry Fuller's vacted room, albeit it was in the high peak of the roof, was a great improvement on the hot little hole over the kitchen which had been intended for 'the boarder.' It was large and airy, and commanded a fine view of the Sound, and there was a snug little corner closet for her dresses, and a big, old-fashioned, claw-legged bureau for her laces and collars.

'I don't think I could have been more pleasantly accommodated at the View Hotel,' thought she.

Mrs Lefton, a fat, purple-faced woman in a rsinbow-tinted grenadine gown, and diamond rings up to the knuckles of her pudgy hands, turned up her nose immensly at the new boarder.

'It's very unfortunate that woman coming here just now,' she said. 'Lefton is so particular about the folk that I associate with. But perhaps since it can't be helped she can show me how to alter over Marietta's black tissue dress that the French madam spoiled. I'd be willing to pay her half price for helping me.'

Mrs. Jones, however, gently declined Mrs. Lefton's patronizing offer.

'I am here for rest and recreation, not for work,' she said. 'I have a Parisian pattern which I will willingly lend yon; but for the rest I must beg to be excused.'

'Stuck-up thing!' said Mrs. Lefton. 'She can go walking with the children, Mrs. Fuller, and hunt for maiden-hair ferns with your Harry half the day, but she can't go to work to earn a stray penny. I've no patience with such upstarts that are above their business.'

'She seems very ladylike,' said old Mrs. Fuller.

'It's because she copies the airs and graces of fine folks that come in to be fitted at her Missus' place,' said Mrs. Lefton, violently fanning herself.

Even while this vehement colloquy was going on at the house, Olivia Jones was sitting on a fallen log in the blackberry pasture, with Harry Fuller leaning with folded arms against a thorn-apple tree close behind her.

'But I really meant it, Mrs. Jones,' said he earnestly.

'That's all nonsense,' said the widow, half-smiling. 'How can you mean it, when you have only known me for ten days?'

'A week or a month can make no difference te me,' persisted he. 'I love you, Mrs. Jones. I can't bear to see you ground down and insulted by women like that Mrs. Lefton. I'm only a farmer, I know, but I've a half-share in this place, with all its surrounding land, and the saw-mill on Gilead River; and if you'll trust yourself to me, you shall never know what want or trouble is. Mrs. Jones—Olivia—won't you give me a word of hope?'

'Would you marry—a mere dressmaker?'

'I would marry you, Olivia, in a second, if you would only say the word.'

'But, Harry—'

He took her hand in his.

'It's all right now, Olivia,' said he, with sparkling eyes. 'If you did not care for me you would not have called me Harry in that tone.'

And that was the way in which they became engaged.

Mrs. Fuller was electrified when she heard of it.

'You, Harry,' she cried, 'that might hev married Amanda Plumb, or even Mrs. Lefton's darter, Marietta, to take up with a dressmaking woman, who—'

Just then there came a tap at the door. A little, wrinkled faced person stood there, in a crumpled hat and widow's veil, with a capacious trunk, wheeled on a wheelbarrow by a boy behind her.

'Mrs. Fuller?' said this personage, whose general appearance reminded one of a badly-rolled parce.

'Yes,' said the farmer's wife. 'But I don't know who you are!'

'Mrs. John Jones,' explained the stranger—'the lady as engaged your second floor front. In the dress-making business. There's been some mistake, and my trunk was sent on to the View Hotel, and some other person was sent here. I was unexpectedly detained by old Mrs. Mopson's funeral orders, and I've just discovered the blunders.'

Mrs. Fuller stared until her spectacle glasses assumed the proportions of two moons.

'If your're the dressmaker that drove the bargain with me by letter,' said she, 'then who is this Mrs. Jones.'

The yellow tressed widow smilingly spoke up.

'Only a usurper, Mrs. Fuller,' said she. 'I had engaged a suit of rooms at the View Hotel, but circumstances drifted me here instead; and I don't regret it, on the whole.'

She put her hand inside Harry's arm as she spoke.

'My stars!' cried the astounded Mrs. Lefton, 'then you are the rich Mrs. John Jones, who was coming to the hotel—the lady that owns half the West India Islands.'

'Not quite so bad as that,' said Mrs. Jones, smiling. 'But I cannot call myself poor, especially since I have been fortunate enough to win an honest man's love.'

And when old Mrs. Fuller related this story, as she often did, she always capped the climax by saying, complacently:

'So our Harry was a fortune hunter after all, only he didn't know it.'—Saturday Night.

Etiquette for Mrs. Cleveland.

Doubtless it has occurred to a few of those who have looked with envy upon Mrs. Cleveland's high position, and the encomiums so constantly passed upon her, to realize how much she had to sacrifice in the innocent pleasures natural to so young and handsome a woman in exchange for the fleeting honors and really laborious duties of a President's wife. Her associates must necessarily be ladies much older than herself and her partner, if she ever dances at all, which would only be in a State quadrille in opening some specially grand ball, must be an elderly man of high official station.

Mrs. Cleveland's partners at the State dinners to be given during the winter at the Executive Mansion are picked out far in advance. Custom has ordained that at the dinner given to the Cabinet, for instance, she must be escorted to the table by the Secretary of State.

When the Justices of the United States Supreme Court are dining with the President his wife must take the arm of the Chief Justice in going to the dining-room and give him the seat on her right.

When the Diplomatic Corps are the special guests at dinner Mrs. Cleveland will lead the way to the dining-room with Mr. Preston, the Minister from Hayti, because he is the Dean of the Diplomatic Corps, having been here in his present capacity since 1872, which is five years longer than any Minister of similar rank—i. e., a Minister Plenipotentiary—now in the Diplomatic body in Washington. Mr. Preston's wife, however, is in Europe, and so is the wife of the Portuguese Minister, whose service here is next in duration to that of Mr. Preston; and, as a daughter never on State occasions takes the place her father's wife would have were he married, Miss West, the British Minister's daughter, cannot be taken by the President to the table.—Philadelphia Times.

Many marvellous promises are made during the time of elections. It is told of Gambetta that once he went to some agricultural department to oust a reactionary candidate in favor of one of his friends, and inquired about the agriculturalists' wants. 'We are sadly in need of rain,' came the answer. 'I'll see about it when I get to Paris,' promised Gambetta. And his listeners believed in his promise. The record runs that the rain came down in torrents a day or two after, and that when the reactionary candidate presented himself he was hooted at. 'Let your party do as much for us as Gambetta, and we'll elect you.'

Life' Milestones.

Some Thoughts Suggested by the Frequent Recurrence of Birthday.

I have just succeeded in passing another birthday. It was not a counterfeit birthday, therefore I had no trouble in passing it. It was the first birthday I had seen for a year, but it looked so natural that I knew it the minute I saw it. I have seen so many of them, you know, and they have have been coming so infernally regular of late, that I would know one if I didn't see it. In the calm, still night, when nothing can be heard save the mercury sliding down into the bulb of the theremometer, my birthday comes up the back stairs, crawls through the keyhole, and in less than a minute I have another year added to my age. This has been kept up until it has grown monotonous, but what am I to do about it?

When a man is a boy, or rather before the boy becomes a man, his birthdays come around so slowly that he fears he will die of old age before he will see the next one, and in some cases it is a pity he doesn't. He wants to be a man and spit tobacco juice over the surrounding scenery, or put his eighteen karat name on a promissory note. He wants to be his own boss. But too soon the day comes when he would rather be a boy than Jim Cummings. You see, I've had experience. When a man hasn't time to recover from a rough and tumble with one birthday before another one grabs him and whirls him around a few times, he may well remark: 'Here's a pretty state of things!'

A birthday is something that we have all had more or less experience with, I think. Some of us, especially the old maid portion of us, have learned how to handle it carefully and conceal its blemishes, or sequester it entirely. They think old Father Time is rather fast for one of his age, and I don't blame 'em. What right has he to jumble one's birthdays together like dice in a box until you don't know which will come out first?

Twenty-five or thirty years ago these things did not weigh on my mind as they do now. Then I sat on the fence and whistled a gladsome refrain as I swung a sore toe athwart the glorious sunlight, or tried to penetrate two acres of unsympathetic ice with my fertile brain. I have long since turned my back upon the past, but the past don't care for that. The present, with its corns and toothaches, engrosses a large portion of my time, and I am willing to let the past go. If I had it to do over again, I believe I'd be an old maid from the start, and then I could get along without birthdays.

Not so Bully After All.

One day the troopers of Roddy's Cavalry were about to go into battle, dismounted, leaving every fourth man to hold the horses. The men were drawn up to count from right to left. Of course, every fourth man felt jolly, and this is the way the count went on:

'One.'
'Two.'
'Three.'
'Bully!'
'One.'
'Two.'
'Three.'
'Bully!'

General Roddy heard each fourth man call out 'Bully.' His face flushed. When all had been called off, he said:

'Numbers one, two and bully will go into the fight as dismounted cavalry. Number three will hold the horses.'

A young lady belonging to one of the first families of New York, returned from a walk. Her mother who was very strict with her asked:

'Where have you been?'

'Alone?'

'Alone.'

'Are you sure of it?'

'Of course I am. Why do you ask?'

'Oh, nothing at all, only when you went out you took a parasol, and you came home with a gentleman's cane in your hand.'

The young lady has taken the matter under advisement, and will bring in a verdict at an early date.—Texas Siftings.

IT COST NOTHING.

Why a Dying Man Concluded to Postpone the Final Act of Life's Drama.

A curious-looking old fellow, dressed in gray "homespun," was found lying in an alley. When questioned by some one, he turned over with a groan, and said:

'Go away from me now and let me die.'

'Why do you want to die?'

'Because I am a blamed fool.'

'Come, get up, that's no excuse,'

'Yes, it is. Go away I tell you, and let me die.'

'Haven't you been drinking?'

'No, I hain't tetched a drap. Go on away and let me die, I tell you. A man that ain't got no more sense than I have ain't fit to live. It's dangerous for him to walk about.'

'Come, tell me what you did?'

With an effort and another groan he raised up, leaned back against the wall, and said:

'If I tell you will you go on away?'

'Yes.'

'Wall, I'll go you whuther or no. Early this mornin' I come inter town an' met a feller that I knowed. He asked me to go round an' take breakfast with him. I had dun eat breakfast, but as it wasn't any expense to me, I concluded that it wouldn't do to let the viduls go to waste, so I went with him. I eat about a long-handled shovelful uv batter cakes and drunk four cups uv coffee, argyin' all the time that it wasn't costin' me nothin'. Arter I got through I went knockin' 'round, an' putty soon I met a feller that eat dinner with me while he was a candidate last summer. He said that it was gittin' putty well along in the day, but that if I'd go 'round home with him he'd skeer up some breakfast. I started to say no, but ricollectin' how he ate at my table, I went with him. On the way he got a lot uv these here great long sausages. Wall, I stored away about two pounds uv them sausages, eat about my hat full of biscuits, an' drunk three cups of coffee. By this time I was putty well filled up, but shortly afterwards one uv the boys that lives out my way told me that he had found a saloon whar they put out a whole lot uv viduls an' let people eat all they wanted to, so, as it didn't cost nothin' I went 'round. I let in on a big dish full uv sour potatoes an' raw cabbage, an' made myself at home. After I got through with that I went to dinner with a feller because it didn't cost me anything, an' eat putty hearty. Then I struck out an' eat a few apples that I slipped out uv a wagon, an' then I eat a piece uv cheese that I found in a saloon, just because it didn't cost anything. About this time the old boy commenced to overtake me, an' I dodged in here an' drapped down, an' I hope I'll die before I git outen here, fur as I said jist now, a man that ain't got no more sense than I have ain't fitten to live. When I think that I have ate myself to death jest because it didn't cost me anything it makes me so mad I don't know what to do. Oh, how I do suffer all over!'

'Come along with me.'

'No, I'm goin' to die right here.'

'You must come.'

'I won't. I'll never leave here till I'm taken away dead, fur, as I said, a man that ain't got no more sense than I have ain't fitten to live.'

'Then you won't go?'

'Won't move a peg.'

'I'm sorry, for I've got a roast pig down at my house, and would like for somebody to help me eat it.'

'Hold on!' exclaimed the dying man. 'Dog my cats if I don't jine yer, an' die airterwards.—Arkansow Traveler.

Oil on Troubled Waters.

The Hydrographic Office of the navy continues to receive daily many letters from captains of vessels as to the result of their experience in the use of oil to reduce waves. Commander Bartlett says that it is desirable to supply all vessels with oil for use during stormy weather at sea. He will not, however, begin work on his promised treatise on the subject until the efficacy of the oil treatment has been tried and reported upon by officers of the navy. With this end in view an effort is being made to induce Rear-Admiral Luce to issue the necessary orders for such a trial to be made by vessels of the North Atlantic squadron. The hydrographic officers believe the Rear-Admiral will comply with their request. Several letters received recently at the Hydrographic Office give encouraging accounts concerning the use of oil. Two vessels were enabled to lay in comparatively calm water for twenty-four hours, while a tempest was raging about them by the use of only twenty gallons of oil each.

Havoc By Earthquake.

Nearly Two Thousand Lives Lost by the Disaster.

Three Hundred Persons Take Shelter in a Church and are Killed by the Crumbling Walls—Entire Villages Wrecked.

ROME, Feb. 24.—Details have been received this morning of the results of the earthquake yesterday, showing that the effects were far more serious than thought. The loss of life and destruction of property is learned to have been terrible. The most startling news comes from the Genoese Riviera. Over fifteen hundred people were killed in that district. At the village of Bajardo, situated at the top of a hill, a number of the inhabitants took refuge in a church when the shocks were first felt. A subsequent and greater shock demolished the church, and 300 of the people who were in it were killed. The destruction of property in the sections visited by the earthquakes was immense and widespread. Another shock was felt at Mentone to-day. It was so severe that houses were shaken. No one was injured. Additional details concerning the damage done by yesterday's shocks show that in some cases villages built on the mountain sides were toppled into the valleys. Three railway trains have been dispatched with food for the sufferers. A number of soldiers have also been sent to assist them.

ROME, Feb. 23.—The reports of the disaster continue to arrive. The total number of deaths reported up to the present time is abont 2,000.

A Renewal of the Shocks in France

PARIS, Feb. 24, 4 P. M.—A renewal of earthquake shocks has occurred in the southern section of France. A terrible disaster is momentarily expected. Nice, Cannes and Mentone are half deserted. Fears are expressed for the safety of the Prince of Wales and the Orleans Princes, all of whom are in the section of country where the earthquakes prevail.

Spring Farm Cleaning.

While the wife cleans the house, let the husband clean the farm. If vegetable matter is left about the yard, its rapid decay during the damp, warm weather of spring and summer, will poison the air and affect the health of the family. If left about the barn, lots and fields, it will have a like influence on the farm animals. Hogs are doubly liable to be injured, for they not only breathe the fouled air, but nest in such litter. Farm cleaning will save loss from disease. The litter has great value as a fertilizer when properly applied. The intelligent use of this manure insures better crops, and the farm is capable of a more thorough cultivation. And then how much appearances are improved. Make a bonfire of pieces of wood, brush, stumps, etc., not fit for fuel, and give the charcoal to the swine and the ashes to the fruit trees. Remember this work is not complete until those stumps and stones are removed which can be taken out with a reasonable amount of labor; until the trees about the house and in the orchard are pruned; until the old growth is taken from raspberries, gooseberries, currants, etc; until the "underbrush" is cleared out of the wood-lot; until all the ditches are opened and pools are drained; in short, until the farm is clean and neat. Conveniently enough, nearly all, or all of this work, can be done before the spring plowing is begun.—American Agriculturist for March.

The Human Figure.

The proportions of the human figure are six times the length of the feet. Whether the form is slender or plump, the rule holds good; any deviation from it is a departure from the highest beauty in proportion. The Greeks make all their statues according to this rule. The face, from the highest point of the forehead, where the hair begins, to the chin, is one tenth of the whole stature. The hand, from the wrist to the middle finger, is the same. From the top of the highest point of the forehead, is a seventh. If the face, from the roots of the hair to the chin, be divided into three equal parts, the first division determines the place where the eye-brows meet, and the second the place of the nostrils. The height, from the feet to the top of the head, is the distance from the extremity of the fingers when the arms are extended.

An old lady in New Hampshire recently gave a party on her eightieth birthday. When asked how she kept herself so vigorous and healthy she replied: 'By never allowing myself to fret over things I cannot help, by never taking my washing, ironing and baking to bed with me, and by oiling all the various wheels of a busy life with an implicit faith that there is a brain and a heart to this great universe, and that I could trust both.'

H. Y. STITZER, Secretary. JAMES A. McCLAIN, Chairman.

THE reduction of the nation's debt during February amounted to $1,436,782.57.

THE House passed the Mexican pension bill on Tuesday. It appropriates $2, 300,000 for the remainder of the current fiscal year, and $4,600,000 for the next fiscal year.

THE name of James M. Trotter, a colored citizen of Massachusetts, was sent to the Senate by the president, for Recorder of Deeds in the District of Columbia, in the place of James C. Matthews, who was twice rejected. Now let the Senate draw the color line again.

THE annual report of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company shows that their gross earnings during the year 1886 amount to $101,697,980.78. This item alone gives a clear idea of the immense business done by that corporation, which controls and owns 2,322 miles of railway east of Pittsburg.

IN consequence of the dicision of congress that none of the candidates in the second congressional district of Rhode Island were elected legally last November, another election was held in that district last week, which resulted in the election of Chas. H. Page, a democrat, by a majority of 5781.

MRS. DRUSE, the husband-murderer, was hanged at New York on last Friday. She died of strangulation, and left a full confession of her crime, in which she exonerates her daughter from being complicated in the murder of her father, William Druse. Her friends made great efforts to save her life on the plea that she was a woman and ought not to hang.

THE bill extending the minimum term of schools in Pennsylvania to six months passed the house on Tuesday. The bill would be of more benefit to educational interests if there were a compulsory school law. As long as children are allowed to go to school or stay out of it whenever they please the attendance will be slim about three months out of the six.

A MEMBER of the Massachusetts legislature is so disgusted with the sensational reports of executions in the newspapers that he introduced a bill fixing the penalty for publishing such reports at $500 fine and costs. The step is commendable and would greatly improve the literary taste of the public, but we don't think it would remedy the evil. The sensational dailies would willingly pay the $500 sooner than not feed its readers on those spicy morsals of literature.

THE number of insane people in Pennsylvania, according to the fourth annual report of the state committee on lunacy, is 5923, an increrse of 283 over the year 1885. On account of the overcrowded condition of the state asylum at Norristown the legislative committee recommended an appropriation of $300,000 for the erection of a new building with a capacity of 1500 patients Besides that important appropriations are being urged for the enlargement of the asylums in Norristo wn, Harrisburg, Danville and Warren and also for the erection of an asylum for insane criminals.

OWING to the necessity of having to postpone important appointments, as for instance that of Col. Morrison on the interstate commission, until after the fourth of March, it is thought that President Cleveland will call an extra session of the Senate. Again, the fact that congres crowds a large number of bills in the last few days of its session, and that the President has hardly a fair chance of examining them before signing, may necessitate an extra session of that body. Extra sessions do not take well with the country-at-large, but under the circumstances President Cleveland can hardly be blamed if he should find it necessary to call such.

THE committee appointed at the January meeting of the Centre County Pomona Grange, consisting of Messrs. Leonard Rhone, J. J. Arney, John Grove, L. C. Rearick and George Dale, have had under consideration, as introduced to arrange for holding the fourteenth annual Patrons picnic of Centre county for two consecutive days and have agreed by unanimously passing the following :

Resolved, That we hold the fourteenth annual picnic of the Patrons of Husbandry of Centre County at the usual time (about the middle of September,) at the old place on the top of Nittany Mountain ; and that it be continued for two days with an exhibition of such farming implements and stock as manufacturers and farmers may desire to exhibit,and that we cordially invite the public to join with us in our annual gathering.

The committee have been offered tents free by the Williams' Grove Inter-State Picnic Association (except as to transportation,) and have concluded to accept them.

Manufacturers are offering to exhibit and will aid in making the implement department interesting, and, no doubt, farmers having fine stock will be glad of the opportunity to bring it to public notice.

Aarrangements will be made for public lectures daily, and in the evening some special entertainment is contemplated.

Tents will be rented at a nominal price to accommodate those who may contemplate staying on the grounds. Applications for tents should be made early, to enable the committee to engage a sufficient number in time. Families are expected to provide their own board and bedding, but no doubt a boarding house will be erected.

It is confidently believed that the public will enthusiastically join the Patrons of our county to have the grandest and most profitable gathering ever held by the farmers of our county.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

(From our regular correspondent.)
WASHINGTON, Feb. 28, 1887.

The defeated Pension bill, the Cabinet succession, the change of Inauguration day, the new President of the Senate, and the probable extra session of the Senate are the matters that have been most talked about here during the past week.

The President is anxious to avoid asking the Senate to remain in session after the fourth of March, but when asked whether he would be ready to submit the important nominations upon which he desired its action in time to obviate such a necessity, he replied that it was impossible for him to tell.

The Interstate Commerce nominations have given him much perplexity, and now the question has been raised as to his Constitutional right to appoint to a newly created office which is to be filled by and with the advice and consent of the Senate, while the Senate is not in session. It is held by certain Senators that the power by which the President fills vacancies which have occurred during a vacation cannot be applied to the filling of a newly made office.

It seems that Mr. White, ex-president of Cornell University and ex-Minister to Berlin, was much annoyed that the correspondence between the President and himself in relation to his taking a place on the Interstate Commission should have been made known to the public. He says the President merely wrote him a letter asking if his name could be considered in making up the Commission. It is understood that Mr. White would really have liked to accept the place but was dissuaded by friends on the assumption that the Commissioners will fail to satisfy either the people or the railroads, and that however able they may be, they must inevitably incur the charge of incompetency.

On the Republican side of the Senate Chamber there are four men each of whom would do credit to a dime museum as the living skeleton. They are Senators Ingalls, Sherman, Mahone and Eyarts. The longest and lankest of them all is the gentleman from Kansas, who has just been sworn in as president of the Senate in place of Mr. Sherman, the next most attenuated member of the quartette. Mr. Ingalls is as stiff and studied as it is possible to imagine, and upon taking the vice-president's chair he made a characteristic little speech in honor of the retiring Senator with which he (Mr. Ingalls) looked much pleased. Beginning with a burst of modesty he said he must inevitably suffer disparagement by comparison with the learning and parliamentary skill, the urbanity and accomplishments of his illustrious predecess or, but he would striye to equal him in devotion to the duty imposed upon him, etc., which all of them promise.

The first fashionable season which the mistress of the White House has seen in her present position, closed a week ago. One feature of it at least, is worthy of note. Of the innumerable printed and spoken comments made respecting her, she herself says there has not been one hyper-critical remark that reached her. On the contrary they have been complimentary and kindly in the highest degree. When it is remembered that Mrs. Cleveland, without experience, entered upon the most difficult social duty that a woman could attempt, and that she is the youngest mistress that the Presidential Mansion ever had; trusting solely to her own womanly instincts, good breeding and good heart, it is not speaking too strongly to say that her success has been really wonderful.

—Hood's Sarsaparilla is peculiar to itself and superior to all other preparations in strength, economy, and medicinal merit.

What it is Called in Connecticut.

HARTFORD, Feb. 25.—The supreme court to-day rendered a decision in the celebrated New Haven boycott case of the state vs. Ghdden and others, walking delegates, who undertook to enforce a boycott against the New Haven Journal and Courier for refusing to discharge certain compositors. The superior Court found them guilty of conspiracy, and the supreme court confirms the decision. This is the first case of the kind in this state.

—A GREAT BATTLE is continually going on in the numan system. The demon of impure blood strives to gain victory over the constitution, to ruin health, to drag victims to the grave. A good reliable medicine like Hood's Sarsaparilla is the weapon with which to defend one's self,drive the desperate enemy from the field, and restore peace and bodily health for many years. Try this peculiar medicine.

Greatest Water Works in the World

New York city is going to have a new addition to its present inadequate water works, which, when completed, will cost $30,000,000, and will have a reservoir that will cost $10,000,000, and which is capable of supplying 3,000,000 people with 100 gallons a day. The great dam will be near Quaker Bridge, and its total storage capacity will be 40,000,000,000 gallons, which will be supplied mostly by mountain streams and water sheds.

A Captain's Fortunate Discovery.

Capt. Coleman, schr. Weymouth, plying between Atlantic City and N. Y., had been troubled with a cough so that he was unable to sleep, and was induced to try Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption. It not only gave him instant relief, but allayed the extreme soreness in his breast. His children were similarly affected and a single dose had the same happy effect. Dr. King's New Discovery is now the standard remedy in the Coleman household and on board the schooner.

A Terrible Blizzard in Dakota.

BISMARCK, I. T., Feb. 25.—A terrible blizzard is blowing in the west, and the Northern Pacific eastbound passenger train is snowed in near Sentinel Butte. The wind is blowing from the east. The previous storms drove the immense herds of Montana and Western Dakota, into the shelter of the bad lands, and this storm, it is feared, will send them back to the unprotected plain. In a small herd of 150 owned by a citizen of Mandan 100 have died in the storms.

Vermont Railroads Blocked With Snow.

ST. JOHNSBURY, Vt., Feb. 25.—The blockades on the railroads in this section is the worst this season. A hard wind prevailed all night. The mail train west on the Boston and Lowell road reached here at 9 o'clock last night and is still here waiting for the road to be cleared. It is said there are fifteen miles of road west of here upon which the snow is from five to twenty feet deep. The highways of the hills are nearly impassable.

A man who has practiced medicine for 40 years ought to know salt from sugar; read what he says:

TOLEDO, O., JAN. 10, 1887.

Messrs. F. J. Cheney & Co.—Gentlemen:—I have been in the general practice of medicine for most 40 years, and would say that in all my practice and experience, have never seen a preparation that I could prescribe with as much confidence of success as I can Hall's Catarrh Cure manufactured by you. Have prescribed it a great many times and its effect is wonderful, and would say in conclusion that I have yet to find a case of Catarrh that it would not cure, if they would take it according to directions. Yours truly,

After Investigating the Causes of Strikes.

ALBANY, Feb. 25.—The majority report of the legislative committee appointed to investigate the causes of strikes and the exorbitant prices for coal in New York, favors the enactment of a statute,asserting that it is in violation of a public duty and unlawful for any corporation to agree with another corporation expressly or impliedly to limit the production of fuel or food. It is also unlawful by force, duress or mandate of other than lawful authority to prevent the free,voluntary labor of a person of suitable age for any employer he may choose.

A PAYING INVESTMENT.—At this season of the year, when your cows fail in milk, your horses become rough in coat, your pigs refuse to thrive, the hens won't lay as many eggs as they should, you will find a package or two of McDonald's Celebrated Tonic and Blood Purifying Horse and Cattle Powders judiciously administered an investment that will pay its dividends. They are positively the best Horse and Cattle Powders made. Dissatisfied buyers can have their money refunded. What other manufacturer dare make this offer.

Blown From a Train.

WEST CHESTER, Pa., Feb. 25.—Geo. McLear, of this borough, was blown off a train near Frazer last evening. The train had just left Frazer for West Chester and was going at a good rate of speed,when he started to pass from one car to another. The wind was blowing very hard, which, in addition to the breeze created by the motion of the train, caused him to lose his balance while crossing the platforms of the cars and he was literally blown off, alighting on his head at the side of the track. He was picked up insensible, placed on the train and brought to West Chester. This morning he has somewhat recovered, and it is not thought his injuries will proye serious.

Renews Her Youth.

Mrs. Phoebe Chesley, Peterson, Clay Co., Iowa, tells the following remarkable story, the truth of which is vouched for by the residents of the town: 'I am 73 years old, have been troubled with kidney complaint and lameness for many years; could not dress myself without help. Now I am free from all pain and soreness, and am able to do all my own housework. I owe my thanks to Electric Bitters for having renewed my youth, and removed completely all disease and pain."

Six Boys Killed While Walking on the Track.

The Terrible Fate that Befell a Party of Calamus Hunters at Chain Dam near Easton on the Lehigh Valley.

EASTON, Pa., February 27.—Six boys were killed on the Lehigh Valley road, near the Chain Dam, about three miles from here, about 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon, by a passenger train.

There were seven in the party, and all lived in Easton. Their names are Walter Walter, Walter Heath, Walter Pearce, John Gregg, Manning Garris, and their ages range from 12 to 15 years. They left town about 8 o'clock in the morning and walked to Chain dam to gather calamus and hunt muskrats. They started for home about half-past 12, and walked in the centre of the down track in pairs. A coal train came along,and while it was passing them on a short curve the passenger train came and struck them, Six in the party were struck by the engine and thrown either between the tracks or against the side of the coal train. The seventh boy, Harry Pearce, was struck by his brother and knocked from the track uninjured.

All the bodies were placed in a small building near the depot to await the arrival of Coroner Weaver. The skulls of all the boys were crushed and mangled. It was a terrible sight to see the bodies of the six boys lying in a row. As they were gazed upon by a large crowd of people, tears filled the eyes of many of the bystanders.

—For a time my life was despaired of. My trouble was with the Kidneys, Liver and Bladder—also Constipation. Finally I used Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy,and in my opinion it saved my life. MUSICAL COLLEGE.—The 31st Session of Six Weeks, opens Monday evening, April 25th, 1887, for the Teaching and Training of Young Ladies in Vocal and Instrumental Music. Address.

F. C. MOYER, Musical Director,

BOHEMIAN OATS.—There will be a meeting of those persons who have purchased Bohemian Oats of the Crawford, Henry & Williams County Seed Co., whose bonds are not lifted or contract complied with. To meet at Brown's Hotel, Bellefonte, on Wednesday, March 9th, next.

By order of Committee.

—The dispatch to the Altoona Times last week, alleging that five men were killed at Bellefonte by falling from a high scaffold at Valentine's furnace, and which was hastily copied by many other papers in neighboring counties, has turned out to be a newspaper hoax. There is not a word of truth in it.

—The first copy of the Keystone Gazette, since the fire in Bellefonte, has made its appearance, and the paper presents as fresh and neat an appearance as ever. It sports a new and very handsome head and is brimful of news. We hope its publishers will have better luck in the future.

—The Daily News says if there is to be a new Capitol building in this state, Bellefonte is the place for it, as it is the most central town in the state with numerous railroads which make it easy of access. We might add as another advantage that they have an ample amount of fires to keep warm during winter.

—Rev. Deitzler departed for Harrisburg on yesterday morning's train, to pay a visit to his father. We noticed the following item in yesterday's Patriot referring to that divine:

The prayer meeting of Zion Lutheran church, Fourth street will be conducted by Rev. M. L. Deitzler, of Aaronsburg, Pa., this evening at the usual hour.

—H. J. Kurzenknabe, of Harrisburg, arrived on Tuesday morning's train, to deliver an organ, which he had sold to Aaron Ulrich, Penn township. The music house of Kurzenknabe & Sons still holds its own in popularity and square dealing and they have disposed of a goodly number of instruments in this section, all of which give good satisfaction.

—You who lead sedentary lives will find great relief from constipation, headache and nervousness, by taking Simmons Liver Regulator. It is a simple, harmless, vegetable compound, sure to relieve you. Persons of sedentary habits often suffer with kidney affections. If they would maintain the strength of the digestive organs and improve the quality of the blood by taking the Regulator it would restore the kidneys to health and vigor.

—The sleigh bells and the wedding bells were ringing merrily in this section since our last issue. Two knots were tied by Rev. Deitzler, as will be seen by the marriage notices in another column and both couples are well-known by many of our readers. The writer tenders the happy parties his best wishes, and hopes that their matrimonial sailing may be as clear and bright as the days of their marriage were.

—Mrs. John G. Love, a highly esteemed lady of Bellefonte, died at her husband's residence on Linn street, last Friday afternoon, of consumption. Mrs. Love was a woman of superior musical and literary accomplishments and the many local entertainments which she usually got up for the benefit of the Methodist church, in the welfare of which she was deeply interested, always drew large crowds. Before her marriage she was a Miss Fisk, of Lock Haven.

—A ten-inch snow fell on Friday night and Saturday, followed by a regular western blizzard which piled up the "beautiful!" in the fence corners and some places on the highway on Sunday. It was an extremely cold and blustering day and very few people ventured out doors. Owing to the drifted roads between Penn Hall and this place D. G. Smith, the teacher of North street school, was unable to reach Millheim on Monday and there was concequently no school.

SERIOUS CASE.—George Wate, a very respectable young man of Wolf's store Miles twp., while at work on a lumber job for Thos. D. Morris, on the 14th of last month had the misfortune to cut his left knee. At first the wound was not considered dangerous, but since the accident the victim has endured great pain and suffering and at this writing his recovery is doubtful. That he has the sympathy of the whole community is plainly shown by the scores who daily visit him in his affliction.

JUST SO!—Seven out of ten you meet have a bad cold, and with coughing, hawking and snoring are about kept busy. Do a good thing for yourself at once by going to the nearest drug store and getting a bottle of Dr. Kessler's Celebrated English Cough Medicine. If you are not satisfied that it is worth all you pay, the druggist will hand you back your money.

TO THE PUBLIC.—H. S. Clemens, M. D., specialist in all chronic affections, and who also treats diseases largely by inhalations, will visit patients once a month at Bellefonte, with office at the Brockerhoff House, for one day only to examine them, and will then send the medicines from his regular office at the city of Allentown, Pa. Send for testimonials. Date of next visit will be from March 8th at 5 p. m. to the 9th at 7 o'clock, p. m., Tuesday and Wednesday. Please remember the date. Also will be in Centre Hall, Thursday, March 10th.

—Our new corps of borough officers elected at the recent spring election will take their respective places on the first Monday in March. It is generally conceded that the newly elected men will fill their offices as creditably as those who are about to make place for them, and we know of one office which will undoubtedly be filled more satisfactory than it had been. During the year past the council especially has done good work for the advancement of the town and the welfare of the public. It is reasonable to expect that the new board of burgesses will follow in the footsteps of the old council. With a new and first-class set of ordinances for a platform they cannot fail to do what is best for the common good. All that is necessary is sufficient backbone to enforce the local laws and successful government must be the result.

The annual settlement of borough accounts will take place on the second Monday in March.

THEY MEAN BUSINESS —To say the least the Millheim Cornet Band since its organization in 1874 has shown good business tact and enterprise and particularly in the last eight years it has managed its affairs in a manner that put the organization in a flourishing condition. Of late they have secured a comfortable room in J. W. Snook's corner brick building on Main street, have furnished it and put up handsomely lettered window blinds. Last week they voted to purchase a new set of instruments within the next three weeks, at a cost of $360. The half of this amount they have in the treasury, the other half is to be covered by a loan, which they expect to liquidate during the coming spring an summer. The new horns will be nickel-plated, bell-up shape, and will make a fine show. As soon as the horns are here the boys will make arrangements for a teacher and new music. They also concluded to have a grand May festival on Decoration day and Saturday preceding, the proceeds of which will go to the payment of the loan. We hope our citizens will give the boys the well-deserved encouragement in their laudable undertaking.

ANOTHER BELLEFONTE FIRE.—Last Saturday morning at 4 o'clock a fire broke out in Reynold's bank building, Bellefonte, and before the flames could be checked that corner of Diamond square was in ashes. The building in which W. F. Reynold's & Co. carried on the banking business, was a three-story brick structure. South of the hallway on Allegheny street which leads to the upper stories, was a store room, at the time occupied by Mr. Frank, who kept a miscellaneous stock of tinware and other similar articles. Next to it and the last business place in the building was the book and stationery store of H. Y. Stitzer, which has been conducted by Mr. Stitzer for many years and was perhaps the most extensive and best-known book store in the county. East of the banking house, on High street, was R. M. Magee's insurance office, and the three-story building further east was Garman's hotel, one of the oldest builings in the town, an addition having been built to it only a few years ago.

Over Mr. Magee's insurance office is a room occupied by Miss S. Ohumacht, a music teacher. Other apartments over the banking house were occupied by Misses Stover and by Miss Musser. Dr. Bordner's dental office was also here.

The flames spread to the adjoining hotel building and but for the fortunate fact that the wind blew from the southeast other property communicating would have been burned. The hotel building is in ruins and much of the furniture was damaged. The loss on this will be $20,000, partly covered by insurance.

The following statement of losses from the Daily News is as accurate as it could be obtained:

W. F. Reynolds & Co	$20 000
The Messrs. Garman	20 000
H. Y. Stitzer	3 000
I. Frank	2 000
Miss Ohnmacht	1 400
Miss Musser	500
The Misses Stover	500
Dr. Bordner	1 000
R. M. Magee	200
	$48 600

The insurance, approximately estimated, is as follows:

W. F. Reynolds	$10 000
The Messrs. Garman	5 000
H. Y. Stitzer	3 000
I. Frank	2 000
Miss Ohnmacht	1 000
The Misses Stover	500
Dr. Bordner	700
R. M. Magee	200
	$23 400

Developing Copper Mines.

BLUE WING, N. C., Jan. 27, 1887.

Editor Manufacturers' Record:

A 80 ton copper smelting plant will be erected here this coming summer, with the best and latest improvements, with refining furnaces. These mines have been worked for two years and six months. From three to five hundred tons of ore are on the dump, and 15,000 to 20,000 tons in sight. The veins are from 2 to 6 feet thick, standing at 80 degrees and assaying on an average from 16 to 30 per cent.; the walls are well defined and regular, and are what is termed in geology contact veins. These veins often run for a great distance in length, and have never been known in the history of mining record to pinch out or the bottom to be reached. This belt was examined several years ago by Dr. Emmons, then State geologist. He said that it would some day prove a mineral district of vast importance. These developments now in progress prove that Dr. Emmons was correct.

The Durham, Blue Wing & Clarksville Railroad Co. are building a new road from Clarksville to Durham, passing within 100 feet of these mines. Seven or Eight miles have been graded, and several thousand ties are along the line. The company expect to finish and have cars on about the 1st of June, which will give an outlet to these mines. Parties from Philadelphia have purchased large tracts of land here, holding veins of copper, and several syndicates have been organized, who have experts here, and are locating mines. Several new companies have been organized, capitalized at from $300,000 to 500,000 and there will be beyond a doubt many mines worked and smelters built in the near future. This will be one of the most important copper-producing districts in America, or in the world. W. RAKER.

The above communication gives a plain and correct description of the valuable and promising copper mines in North Carolina, mentioned in former issues of this paper. Mr. Raker, the writer of the article will be remembered as the gentleman who visited this place some time ago in the interests of those mines. He is one of the principal operators and in requesting us to publish the above letter wishes us to add that parties wishing to make fortunes, will do well to buy land in that section. There is lots of it for sale cheap which will triple its value in a few years.

COBURN.

Business has been moving in our village the past week. On Tuesday last Guiswite & Co. received a new boiler and unloaded it here. Kurtz & Son, of Centre Hall, loaded a car of wheat. Whitmer & Lincoln loaded a car of wheat and one of oats. Grenoble Bartges & Co. loaded a car of wheat. A gentleman from Lebanon county loaded a car of horses. A. T. Grenninger moved to Sugar Valley and Mr. Hosterman moved from Woodward into his new house. This all happening in one day made it lively for our little village.

The editor and lady spent last Sabbath in our village and visited our Sunday school in the afternoon, where he taught one of the classes and made an address to the school, urging the necessity of keeping up our Sabbath school. We're glad to see him here and hope he enjoyed himself. Come again.

On Sabbath evening those who were in church were greatly disappointed at the pastor's absence. There was consequently no preaching though it had been announced that there would be services.

We noticed five or six ministers boarding the train on Tuesday and upon inquiry learned that they were going to Baltimore to attend conference.

GREEN BRIAR.

One day last week there was a runaway. The Harter Bros. horses took fright at the escaping steam at the planing mill at Coburn and took to their heels. They got as far as Ertel's mill where they were stopped by John Herb. No damage whatever.

The scholars of Gentzel's school paid a visit to the mountain school the other day.

J. C. Stoyer killed four calves in 40 minutes ready for the market. They weighed 387 lbs. Who can beat our boss butcher?

Among those intending to move away from here this spring are Wash Tharp who goes to Coburn, Oscar Auman goes to Potter's Mills and Henry Snavely to Jersey City, where he intends to farm for Mr. J. Frank Torbert.

The meeting in Paradise church which has lasted over seven weeks now is still in progress.

Mr. G. W. Stover's condition shows no signs of improvement. He is not able to leave the house. ZITZSKA.

PENN HALL.

Our town honored the "Father of our Country" by raising the American flag on his birthday.

A number of our citizens attended the horse sale at Centre Hall but no new horses were brought to town.

Squire Hering had several quite interesting law suits last week, especially the one between Reber and Guiswite, from Miles township, both parties having their councils present. Gregg township can boast of one of the ablest Justies in the county. Mr. Hering has served for twenty-seven successive years and during that length of time not one suit left his office to go through court.

We are again able to inform the boys that there will be another wedding in our vicinity before long. No wonder some parties were absent from the oyster supper.

Mrs. Dr. Smith, from Centre Hall, was the guest of Jno. Smith during the last week.

The store at this place is blessed with sale bills. We notice those printed by the Journal job office are trump.

That target gun, a new enterprise, has been added to N. S. Weaver's shoe shop. With this and the coons the loafers can pass the time.

—Says neighbor Smith: "My little girl was pale and sickly, rapidly losing flesh, appetite variable, and sleep much disturbed. Her condition was becoming alarming. Was advised by a friend to try McDonald's Celebrated Worm Powders. Administered three and she expelled the enormous number of 132 worms." Hood's Sarsaparilla

Is a peculiar medicine, and is carefully prepared by competent pharmacists. The combination and proportion of Sarsaparilla, Dandelion, Mandrake, Yellow Dock, and other remedial agents is exclusively peculiar to Hood's Sarsaparilla, giving it strength and curative power superior to other preparations. A trial will convince you of its great medicinal value. Hood's Sarsaparilla creates and sharpens the appetite, stimulates the digestion, and gives strength to every organ of the body. It cures the most severe cases of Scrofula, Salt Rheum, Boils, Pimples, and all other affections caused by impure blood, Dyspepsia, Biliousness, Headache, Kidney and Liver Complaints, Catarrh, Rheumatism, and that extreme tired feeling.

"Hood's Sarsaparilla has helped me more for catarrh and impure blood than anything else I ever used." A. BALL, Syracuse, N. Y.

Creates an Appetite

"I used Hood's Sarsaparilla to cleanse my blood and tone up my system. It gave me a good appetite and seemed to build me over." E. M. HALE, Lima, Ohio.

"I took Hood's Sarsaparilla for cancerous humor, and it began to act unlike anything else. It cured the humor, and seemed to tone up the whole body and give me new life." J. F. NIXON, Cambridgeport, Mass.

Make Your Homes Attractive.

Mothers and fathers who have sons and daughters growing up, do not always realize as they should the great necessity of making home not merely a place in which their children eat, sleep, and are clothed, but one in which they find positive happiness and enjoyment. In nine cases out of ten where you see a wild youth or a giddy girl, go to their homes; you will find them cheerless, unattractive, or perhaps actually disagreeable.

The nature of youth is excessively restless; it has a longing for action and excitement, ambitions more or less vain, and always the irrepressible desire to know a broader life. Repress these natural instincts, and you will be sure to throw them into any society that in a measure will gratify their longings. Your sons do not go to the public bar-rooms at first for the taste of the liquor which they have not as yet acquired; they go for the gay companions they find there. The influence for good or evil that a mother has over her sons, the control that she exercises over their destinies, is a graye responsibility. Throw open your best room to the children in the evening. Have books and a magazine or two, even if you put away less money. Stimulate their ambition, and invent occupations and amusement for your children. Give them games and endear yourself to them by sharing their joys and plays. Encourage them to be affectionate. Do not with formal coldness starve them for want of caresses.—AMERICAN AGRICULTURIST for March.

GENERAL LORING'S GRIT.

Dr. Steiner, now of Augusta, Ga., was the army surgeon who amputated General Loring's arm, which was shattered at the battle of Chapultepec. Says the Augusta Chronicle: 'Dr. Steiner says that Loring was the most self-possessed man he ever saw. In those days anæsthesia was just becoming known, but not available in Mexico, so Loring had to submit to the knife without chloroform or ether. Smoking a cigar, elated with victory, he never by so much as a cry or murmer or quiver of the muscles indicated that he suffered the least pain as his limb was sliced from his body. It was a magnificent exhibition of nerve and soul defiance.'

LITTLE WOMEN.

The seven-year-old daughter of a very busy mother who, in consequence of her husband's early death, was obliged to carry on his business, was asked one day by a friend what she was able to do in the way of help.

'I can only pray to God and then hem the dusters,' was the child's reply, in all seriousness, but it showed that she had learned to do the duty that lay nearest her, and as years went on she developed into the steady, reliable, cheerful girl to whom the whole household looked for help, and seldom, if ever, looked in yain.
